

Alternative Routes Survey

Mercer County and the Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission (DVRPC) are currently conducting a concept development study of the Johnson Trolley Trail Corridor.

This study will identify an alternative to connect and extend two existing trail segments to create a bicycle and pedestrian corridor between the City of Trenton and the Municipality of Princeton, and pass through Lawrence and Ewing Townships in Mercer County, NJ. A substantial element of the project is to investigate the historic rail right-of-way and alternatives to connect a safe multimodal path to existing and planned facilities. Goals of the project are to link areas of high economic distress with areas of increasing economic opportunity, provide a safe alternative to traditional motor vehicle transportation, and connect high-density residential, commercial, and institutional areas with open space, parks, and recreational facilities.

Please take a short survey to provide your feedback and choose your preferred alternative routes to be considered for the potential alternative of the Johnson Trolley Trail Corridor in Mercer County.
